

ARMY FLIERS TAKE AIR BATH

Air bathing is the latest thing in army circles. In addition to the daily water plunge taken by the officers at Ft. Bliss, a few of the air service men are indulging in nightly plunges in the air. This is done by jumping from an airplane at any altitude the flier has a fancy for down into the rippling waves of oxygen and hydrogen below.

Lieut. Ulrich T. Bonquet will take his air bath at 6:30 o'clock this evening. Lieut. H. B. Rivers took his latest one Sunday night. Lieut. Bonquet, under the direction of Capt. John M. Clark, adjutant of the air service at Ft. Bliss, is expected to ascend to about 400 feet in the air at the post Tuesday, and then jump. The plunge will be made safe by means of a combination of parachutes. The combination is made of a strong fine material that furnishes a cushion for the flier back while he is flying and is not heavy.

The first of a series of parachutes which open when the aviator drops is a small, umbrella-like field at the top. This breaks the rate of speed of the fall to nearly half. In a few seconds another and larger parachute opens breaking the speed still more. When

City Is Hatching 30 Ostrich Eggs; May Have Farm

El Paso may have an ostrich farm. At least it has a good start. An incubator, purchased by the city two months ago, has within its protecting walls 30 eggs, laid by the two ostrich hens at the Washington park zoo. John W. Fisher, commissioner of parks, said 21 days are required for an ostrich egg to hatch. Most of the eggs were put in the incubator as soon as laid, but several having remained too long in the sun, were thrown away. Each egg is dated when it is placed in the incubator, and if it doesn't come up to expectations in 42 or 44 days it is discarded. Ostrich chicks are hardy, Mr. Fisher said. Although the ostrich flock at the zoo may not be increased by a large number, it is expected that enough chicks will be hatched to make the incubator one of the city's assets.

The flier is within about 500 feet of the ground, still another parachute opens and reduces the speed of the fall to about 10 feet a second. These rates of speed enable the flier who jumps to swim around in the air with more or less freedom and land just about where they want to. The public is invited to go to Ft. Bliss and see the jump tonight.

Dope Worth $1000 Is Sued For In Juarez

The board of health of the state of Chihuahua and the local board of Juarez had been asked by the municipal judge, Eduardo Delgado, to render a decision in the case of Felix Montano, who claims that the city authorities of Juarez are illegally withholding morphine and cocaine valued at more than $1000. The complaint was filed by Montano's attorney, Jesus Cuez, former judge of the federal district court.

The drugs were seized several days ago by the Juarez police, who charge that Montano meant to smuggle the narcotics into the United States. As there is no law against the possession of drugs in Mexico, Montano, who is an Italian and claims to be an American citizen, was released.

NAME IDENTIFIED AS RIOT SLAYER

Chicago, Ill., June 22.—With S. A. Jones, said to be by the police to be the white leader of an organization advocating return of negroes to Abyssinia, Redding, who is a leader of the Chicago "Reds," was reported to have participated.

Who told the police he was head of the "Modern Educational and Religious Bureau of Washington, D. C.," denied responsibility, claiming he had been ejected from a meeting of Abyssinians the previous Sunday. According to the police Jones identified Redding, who was said to have passed as an Abyssinian, as a leader in a parade in the negro quarter last night and the man who burned the American flag in the riot.

The police were still searching for Joseph Ferno, who is said to call himself the "Great and the Red," and his son. According to reports, they, fanatically garbed, were also leaders of the parade.

The inquiry into the deaths of Charles Hoyt, cigar store clerk, and Robert L. Hess, a sailor, riot victims, was postponed until June 23, at the request of the police who said that had three of the men believed to be implicated in the shooting under arrest and wanted more time to search for a fourth.

The police said two negro witnesses, who killed Hess and Hoyt, were resolutions denouncing Jones as a white leader responsible for creating unrest among the negro population, were passed yesterday by several negro organizations. They said that the riot was not caused by racial feeling.

Is Clerk Tired?

Wash His Face. He'll Be O. K.

If your clerk gets sluggish and inefficient and doesn't dispose of your goods as he should along about 2 o'clock in the afternoon have him, or her if she will, go out and wash his face.

This was the advice Scott White gave the salesmanship club at its luncheon Tuesday at the chamber of commerce. He has just returned from the club's convention in Indianapolis, and he said this was part of the instructions given by an expert in salesmanship from Columbia university.

The main speaker at the luncheon was A. W. Norrop, who told his experiences as a salesman including efforts to sell patent fire extinguishers to small towns during his college vacations and his adventures selling pictures to the nobility in London. He also talked about oil stock, mostly about the kind he bought.

F. M. Bannell won a $5 prize for making the best sales talk. He donated the money to a babies' milk fund.

M. L. Bath, president of the chamber of commerce at Shreveport, La., was a guest but declined to say more than a word or two because his voice is out of condition from many talks before other clubs.

At the request of Norman Snodgrass, Ray Shelton, the president, named the club as a committee of the whole to find tents for the Salvation army rescue home kiddies who are camping down the valley.

VILLA GETS MORE RIFLES

Despite the fact that two different forces of men had been sent to the north to prevent his getting fresh horses and a new supply of ammunition, Villa's mission to the Chihuahua territory is said to have been partly successful. The family, according to information reaching Juarez, eluded the troops sent to intercept him by Gen. Joaquin Amaro, and with a large supply of high powered rifles and several thousand rounds of ammunition, smuggled from the United States, has returned with his force to the central Chihuahua mountains. He is now at San Francisco de Oro, a small mining settlement south of Juarez. He was joined there by Nicolas Fernandez, his old-time command, who with a force of 100 men has been operating in the vicinity of the Concho river.

Villa is said to have secured several hundred additional recruits since the drive against him was inaugurated by the de facto government, and it was to get rifles for these men that Villa is said to have made the trip into the Chihuahua district. He now has about 600 men.

A strong sentiment in favor of Villa is being cultivated among Mexicans in the United States who are unfriendly to the de facto government and who claim that Villa is fast becoming an important political factor in Mexico.

Gen. Amaro, with a large command of cavalry, is at Concho station, on the Mexican Central line, according to information received at Juarez military headquarters.

Gen. Amaro, who is bringing 3000 men to join in the pursuit of Villa, has not yet arrived at Torreon.

Hair Kept Beautifully
Wavy, Indoors or Out!

If you will apply a little liquid all-morning before going up your hair it will have greater wave and curl than probably has ever had. The washers will look perfectly natural, and the hair will be sleek and shiny. It will remain in curl the longest time, regardless of wind or moisture, and you won't have to be continually fussing with loose strands or flying ends. Liquid shampoo is, of course, entirely harmless. It leaves no sticky, greasy or sticky trace. It is also an excellent dressing for the hair, keeping it delightfully soft and silky. A few drops from your drugstore will last for weeks. It is best applied with a clean hair brush, drawing this down the full length of the hair.—Adv.

Real Estate Men Are Opposed To Timber Cutting

At the request of the El Paso real estate board, congressman Claude B. Huddap tonight with wife Cato Sella, Indian commissioner in Washington, opposing the cutting of timber around Cloudcroft. At the real estate board's luncheon Tuesday noon at the Toltex club, Mr. Huddap was asked to take this action and it was agreed to work with the chamber of commerce in opposing the removal of the timber.

The government has advertised for bids for cutting the timber at the famous summer resort of the southwest. The government's reason for wanting the timber cut is that it is to be sold to give the Indians in this section of the country money with which to buy cattle.

Mr. Huddap says this is not necessary and suggests that the government should sell the timber for this purpose.
